C.P. Prep has an exemplary Pre-K program. My son attended June 10-June 11. Mrs. Patterson briefed my wife and me about program objectives before we entered. C.P. Prep met every mark. Mrs. Patterson's challenging, progressive, but nurturing Pre-K curriculum help cultivate my son's learning ability. Upon graduation, he (age 4) was able to (apply not just recite): count to about 60 without flaw; count to 100 by 10s, add and subtract on an introductory level, recognize beginning and end sounds, and was on the verge of reading. I too did not like the fundraisers, but understood that private schools do not get the funding that public schools do. Parents have to take an active role in academics as well as fundraising. My family's hard work helped put computers in the classroom and made headway on an expanded facility. We now reside in the FISD, one of the finest districts in North Texas; unfortunately all of the private Kindergarten programs are academically subpar. We are paying more for less. We have been forced to put him in a Kindergarten program that is the lesser equal of C.P.'s Pre-K program. I was thoroughly impressed with my son's academic experience @ C.P. Prep.
